Intersecting Families of 3-sets

Allan Bickle, Purdue University

An intersecting family of sets is a collection of sets so that each pair of sets has a nonempty intersection. We characterize all intersecting families of 3-sets using seven infinite collections of families and eight finite families. Some of these families have interpretations as combinatorial designs, and can be represented using graph embeddings.